From the "Citizen of the World."

THE PERFECTION OF THE CHINESE IN THE ART OF GARDENING.

Description of a Chinese Garden.

The English have not yet bro't the art of Gardening to the same perfection with the Chinese, but have lately began to imitate them; nature is now followed with greater assiduity than formerly; the trees are suffered to shoot out into the utmost luxuriance; the streams no longer forced from their native beds, are permitted to wind along the vallies; spontaneous flowers take place of the finished parterre, and the enamelled meadow of the shaven green.

Yet still the English are far behind us in this charming art; their designers have not yet attained a power of uniting instruction with beauty. An European will scarcely conceive my meaning when I say, that there is scarce a Garden in China which does not contain some fine moral, couched under the general design, where one is not taught wisdom as he walks, and feels the force of some noble truth, or delicate precept, resulting from the disposition of the groves, streams or grottos. Permit me to illustrate what I mean by a description of my Gardens at Quansi My heart still hovers round those scenes of former happiness with pleasure; and I find satisfaction in enjoying them at this distance, tho' but in imagination.

You descend from the house between two groves of trees, planted in such a manner that they were impenetrable to the eye; while on each hand the way was adorned with all that was beautiful in porcelain, statuary, and painting.—This passage from the house opened into an area surrounded with rocks, flowers, trees, and shrubs; but all so disposed as if each was the spontaneous production of nature. As you proceeded forward on this lawn, to your right and left hand, were two gates opposite to each other, of very different architecture and design; and before you lay a temple, built rather with minute elegance than ostentation.

The right hand gate was planned with the utmost simplicity, or rather rudeness; Ivy clasped round the pillars, the baleful cypress hung over it, time seemed to have destroyed all the smoothness and regularity of the stone; two champions with lifted clubs appeared in the act of guarding its access; dragons and serpents were seen in the most hideous attitudes, to deter the spectator from approaching; and the perspective view that lay behind, seemed dark and gloomy to the last degree; the stranger was tempted to enter only from the motto. "Pervi-virtuti."

The opposite gate was formed in a very different manner; the architecture was light, elegant and inviting; flowers hung in wreaths round the pillar; all was finished in the most exact and masterly manner; the very stone of which it was built still preserved its polish; nymphs, wrought by the hand of a master, in the most alluring attitudes, beckoned the stranger to approach; while all that lay behind, as far as the eye could reach, seemed gay, luxurient, and capable of affording endless pleasure. The motto itself contributed to invite him. for over the gate was written these words, "Facilis desensus."

By this time I fancy you begin to perceive, that the gloomy gate was designed to represent the road to virtue: the opposite, the more agreeable passage to vice. It is but natural to suppose, that the spectator was always tempted to enter by the gate which offered him so many allurements; I always in these cases, left him to his choice; but generally he took to the left, which promised most entertainment.

Immediately upon his entering the gate of vice, the trees and flowers were disposed in such manner as to make the most pleasing impression; but as he walked further on, he insensibly found the garden assume the air of a wilderness, the landscapes began to darken, the paths grew more intricate, he appeared to go downwards, frightful rocks seemed to hang over his head, gloomy caverns, unexpected precipices, awful ruins, heaps of unburied bones, and terrifying sounds, caused by unseen waters, began to take place of what at first appeared so lovely; it was in vain to attempt returning; the labyrinth was too much perplexed for any but myself to find the way back. In short, when sufficiently impressed with the horrors of what he saw, and the imprudence of his choice, I bro't him by an hidden door, a shorter way back into the aera from whence at first he had strayed.

The gloomy gate now presented itself before the stranger; and though there seemed little in its appearance to tempt his curiosity, yet encouraged by the motto, he generally proceeded. The darkness of the entrance, the frightful figures that seemed to obstruct his way, the trees of a mournful green, conspired at first to disgust him; as he went forward, however, all began to open and wear a more pleasing appearance; beautiful cascades beds of flowers, trees loaded with fruit or blossoms, and unexpected brooks, improved the scene; he now found that he was ascending, and as he proceeded all nature grew more beautiful, the prospect widened as he went higher, even the air itself seemed to become more pure.—Thus pleased and happy from unexpected beauties, I at last led him to an arbor, from whence he could view the garden and the whole country around, and where he might own, that the road to virtue terminated in happiness.

Though from this description you may imagine, that a vast tract of ground was necessary to exhibit such a pleasing variety in, yet, be assured, that I have seen several gardens in England take up ten times the space which mine did, without half the beauty.

A small extent of ground is enough for an elegant taste; the greater room is required if magnificence is in view. There is no spot, though ever so little, which a skilful designer might not thus improve, so as to convey a delicate allegory, and impress the mind with truths the most useful and necessary.

Adieu!

PHILADELPHIA, July 16.

OCCURRENCES IN THE CHESAPEAKE.

BALTIMORE, July 13.—By some intelligent persons that came up yesterday in open boats from Accomac, eastern shore, Virginia, the following position of the British squadron up to Saturday is received. The Albion, 74, Admiral Cockburn, at the mouth of the Patuxent, moved there a few days since. The Jasseur brig off Tangier Island—another brig off Barren Island, nothing between that and North Point—at the head of the bay the Loire frigate and a large schooner; the number in Lynhaven bay not known—they do not however exceed two large frigates.

The Dragon, 74, Barrie, sailed from Tangier about a fortnight since, with the tobacco taken in the Patuxent, and the principal part of the blacks that were on the island; there were but few they thought fit for service. About 60 men were left at the fortification on Tangiers—the Jesseur the guard ship.

A boat despatched from this on Sunday to the head of the bay, was chased on shore at the mouth of Bush river, at 3 o'clock, P. M the same day, by a barge from the ship; they were pursued a considerable way inland, by the party, who frequently fired on them without effect. The men in the boat have all returned, with the exception of Captain Heylind, who has gone on to Elkton by land. they report the force of the enemy to be a small frigate and two schooners—they had seven captured vessels with them.

The frigate at the head of the bay is supposed to be the Loire, Capt. Brown, she has one armed schooner in company. A letter from a gentleman in Bush, dated yesterday morning, mentions that they had captured 12 sail of craft, including the Frenchtown packet. that he had been on board Capt. Brown's ship in a flag, who offered to ransom the vessel for 600 dollars.

A passenger that was in the captured Frenchtown packet, reached town yesterday. he states that the packet and Rollins schooner in company had stretched over to the eastern shore, and were totally ignorant of any force near at hand. The ship being out of sight, the schooner was not suspected until the barges put out from her, they approached so quick that they had barely time to get into the boat and put off for the eastern shore—there were 4 passengers in the schooner, one of whom could not be persuaded to leave her—the packet had a full freight of goods, some of which was public property, and together with the passengers' baggage fell into their hands. Rollin's schooner was loaded with wood.

Extract of a letter from Elkton, dated Monday, 4 o'clock, P. M.

"The British have just made an attack on this place, with 4 large barges full of men, and after exchanging a few shot, they returned down the river."

HAVRE-DE-GRACE, Monday 2 o'clock, P. M.—Four schooners in sight on eastern shore, near Elk river.

Wednesday, June 13—noon.—At a few minutes before 8 o'clock last evening a ship and four schooners were discovered off Swan Point standing down the bay, wind light at N. W. This morning early nothing could be seen of them in the bay.

Wednesday evening, July 13—The Rock Hall mail was brought over in an open boat this evening; from the hands, information is received, that early this morning, the frigates and schooners that had been up to the head of the bay had dropped down to off Annapolis last night, got under way thence with a westerly wind.

On Sunday as they went up, their barges being some ahead, were observed looking into every creek on the east and west shore: Col. Reed, being on a visit in the neighbourhood of Worton creek, and fully expecting a visit there, resolved upon such an attack as the nature of the place would admit—he borrowed a musket and mustered about twenty of the neighbours with duck guns, muskets, &c. and formed an ambuscade.

Four barges entered Worton a short time after, the first and largest a considerable way ahead. The Colonel suffered them to approach near before he opened: his fire being directed to the headmost barge proved very fatal—for of the 24 oars that pulled in, but 4 pulled out—there were four deliberate rounds of buck and musket shot fired from the ambuscade when they all retired out of the creek.

We understand by the stage passengers that Com. Rodgers, with an alacrity deserving the cause in which he has engaged, took 250 of his men, and crossed over to Elkton, which he reached yesterday morning, at 1 o'clock, and immediately took possession of the fortifications—and that 150 of the British had landed on Spesutia Island.—American

WILMINGTON, (Del.) July 14.—The British, who have been with a small force near Frenchtown and Elkton, have gone down the bay. Some have supposed that they went up the bay for water—others, to harrass us without intending any serious attack—and others to obtain all the small craft they could find, which would answer for transports.

In corroboration of the latter opinion, a gentleman from Baltimore, yesterday informed the editor, that the enemy do not, as was the case last year, generally burn the small craft.

The troops and marines we understand returned last evening to New-Castle.

ANNAPOLIS, July 14.

The Enemy—The British frigate Narcissus, which passed this place on Saturday, in company with a schooner, and two smaller vessels, bound up the bay, repassed yesterday morning with twelve sail of small vessels, which she has captured on her passage up. We have no accounts from the head of the bay, as to any other damage done by them. Her object, it is supposed, was to procure water.

ALEXANDRIA, (Vir.) July 13.—The enemy again in the Patuxent.—By a gentleman who left the neighbourhood of Benedict on Monday last, we learn, that the enemy had again returned to that place with a considerable force of ships and barges, and that the barges had proceeded some distance above the town.

WASHINGTON CITY, July 16.

Copy of a letter from Point Look Out, to the Post Master General.

Point Look Out, July 14, 1814.

SIR,

There are 7 sail of the enemy's vessels, viz: two 74's, 2 frigates, mounting from 46 to 44 guns each, 1 sloop of 20, 1 brig of 18, and one sloop now opposite this point, ascending the bay with a fresh southeast wind. They will in all probability reach Patuxent, to-night, which will augment the force in that vicinity to three 74's, 4 frigates, 1 sloop of war, 1 brig, 3 schrs. and one sloop, making an aggregate of 13 sail.

This morning several boats from the fleet landed at Smith's Point when opposite that place, who set fire to such parts of the light house as was composed of wood. They also fired 2 framed houses situated contigious to the light house, which were entirely consumed.

In haste I am,

Sir, with respect, &c.

TH: SWANN.

To the post master general.

PLATTSBURGH, July 3.

We have no information respecting either our army, stationed at Champlain, or our flotilla on the lake, to present to our readers this week Although our troops and the enemy's, are stationed within a short distance of each other, neither of them appear to be disposed to be the first who shall cross the line in any considerable body. Small marauding parties on each side, we understand, still continue to harrass and disturb the tranquillity of the inoffensive inhabitants of this frontier.

It is not probable that any thing of consequence will soon be effected on the lake, the enemy at present being inferior to us in force, will no doubt have the precaution to keep out of danger until sufficiently strengthened to meet us with hopes of success; which may not be far distant, as we are informed he is assidiously engaged in building one large ship and several gallies.

Postscript.—We stop the press to state, that we have just been informed the enemy have opened the road that leads from Odletown, through Lacadie woods, to Laprarie; and that an immediate attack on the military post at Champlain, is apprehended. Also, that deserters from the enemy who have just arrived, declare that a large body of troops has lately landed at Quebec.

CHILICOTHE, July 23.

THE INDIAN COUNCIL.

By an expres direct from Greenville, we are informed that the treaty is nearly concluded with the Indians by our commissioneas—that they were favorable to the U. S.—and that 8 of the tribes had taken up the hatchet, determined to embark their lives and fortunes, with us.

WASHINGTON CITY, July 16.

THE BATTLE OF CHIPPEWA!

Copy of a letter from Maj. Gen. JACOB BROWN, to the Secretary of War, dated,

Head Quarters, Chippewa Plains, July 7, 1814.

SIR,

On the 2d inst. I issued my orders for crossing the Niagara river, and made the necessary arrangements for securing the garrison of fort Erie. On the 3d, that post surrendered at 5 P. M. Our loss in this affair was 4 of the 25th regt. under maj. Jessup, of brig. gen. Scott's brigade wounded. I have enclosed a return of the prisoners of the ordnance, and ordnance stores captured.

To secure my rear, I have placed a garrison in this fort, and requested capt. Kennedy to station his vessels near the post.

Onthe morning of the 4th gen Scott with his brigade and corps of artillery, was ordered to advance towards Chippewa, and be governed by circumstances; taking care to secure a good military position for the night. After some skirmishing with the enemy, he selected this plain with the eye of a soldier, his right resting on the river, and a ravine being in front. At 11 at night, I joined him with the reserve under brig. gen. Ripley, our field and battering train, and corps of artillery under maj. Hindman. Brig. gen. Porter arrived the next morning with a part of the New York and Pennsylvania volunteers, and some of the wariors of the Six Nations.

Early in the morning of the 5th, the enemy commenced a petty war upon our pickets, and as he was indulged, his presumption increased; by noon he shewed himself on the left of our exterior line, and attacked one of our pickets as it was returning to camp.

Capt. Treat, who commanded it, retired disgracefully, leaving a wounded man on the ground. Capt. Biddle of the artillery, who was near the scene, impelled by feelings highly honorable to himself as a soldier and officer, promptly assumed the command of this picket, led it back to the wounded man, and bro't him off the field. I ordered capt. Treat, on the spot, to retire from the army, and as I am anxious that no officer under my command who can be suspected of cowardice, I advise that capt. Treat and Lt. ——,* who was also with the picket, be struck from the rolls of the army.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon, agreeable to a plan I had given gen. Porter, he advanced from the rear of our camp, with the volunteers and Indians, (taking the woods in order to keep out of view of the enemy,) with the hope of bringing his pickets and scouting parties between his (Porter's) line of march and our camp. As Porter moved, I ordered the parties advanced in front of our camp to fall back gradually, under the enemy's fire, in order to draw him, if possible, up to our line. About half past 4, the advance of gen. Porter's command met the light parties of the enemy in the woods, upon our extreme left. The enemy were driven, and Porter advancing near to Chippewa, met their whole column in order of battle. From the cloud of dust rising, and the heavy firing, I was led to conclude that the entire force of the enemy was in march, and prepared for action. I immediately ordered Gen. Scott to advance with his brigade, and Towson's artillery, and met them upon the plain in front of our camp. The general did not expect to be gratified so soon with a field engagement. He advanced in the most prompt and officer-like style, and in a few minutes was in close action upon the plain, with a superior force of British regular troops. By this time Gen. Porter's command had given way, and fled in every direction, notwithstanding his personal gallantry, and great exertions to stay their flight. The retreat of the volunteers and Indians caused the left flank of Gen. Scott's bsigade to be greatly exposed. Captain Harris, with his dragoons, was directed to stop the fugitives behind the ravine fronting our camp; and I sent Col. Gardner to order Gen. Ripley to advance with the 21st regiment, which formed part of the reserve, pass to the left of our camp, skirt the woods so as to keep out of view, and fall upon the rear of the enemy's right flank. This order was promptly obeyed, and the greatest exertions were made by the 21st regiment to gain their position, and close with the enemy, but in vain—for such was the zeal and gallantry of the line commanded by Gen. Scott, that its advance upon the enemy was not to be checked. Major Jessup commanding the left flank battalion, finding himself pressed in front, and in flank, and his men falling fast around him, ordered his battalion to "support arms and advance"—the ordered was promptly obeyed, amidst the most deadly and destructive fire. He gained a more secure position, and returned upon the enemy so galling a discharge, as caused them to retire.—By this time their whole line was falling back, and our gallant soldiers pressing upon them as fast as possible. As soon as the enemy had gained the sloping ground descending towards Chippeway, and distant a quarter of a mile, he broke and ran to gain his works. In this effort he was too successful, and the guns from his batteries opening immediately upon our line, checked in some degree the pursuit. At this moment, I resolved to bring up my ordnance, and force the place by a direct attack, and gave the order accordingly. Major Wood of the corps of engineers, and my aid captain Austin, rode to the bank of the creek towards the right of their works, and examined them. I was induced by their report, the lateness of the hour, and the advice of Gen. Scott and Major Wood, to order the forces to retire to camp

My most difficult duty remains to be performed—I am depressed with a fear of not being able to do justice to my brave companions in arms, and apprehensive, that some who had an opportunity of distinguishing themselves, and promptly embraced it, will escape my notice.

Brig. Gen. Scott is entitled to the highest praises our country can bestow; to him more than to any other man am I indebted for the victory of the 5th July. His brigade has covered itself with glory. Every officer and every man of the 9th and 22d, 11th and 25th regiments did his duty with a zeal and energy, worthy of the American character. When every officer stands so pre-eminently high in the path of duty and honor it is impossible to discriminate, but I cannot deprive myself of the pleasure of saying that Major Lavenworth commanded the 9th and 22d, Major Jessup the 25th, and Major M'Neil the 11th. Col. Campbell was wounded early in the action, gallantly leading on the regiment.

The family of Gen. Scott were conspicuous in the field; lieut. Smith of the 6th infantry, major of brigade, and lieuts. Worth and Watts his aids.

From Gen. Ripley and his brigade, I received every assistance that I gave them an opportunity of rendering. I did not order any of the reserve into action, until Gen. Porter's command had given way, and then Gen. Scott's movements were so rapid and decisive, that General Ripley could not get up in time with the 21st, to the position as directed. The corps of artillery under Major Hindman, were not generally in action—this was not their fault: Capt. Towson's company was the only one that had a full opportunity of distinguishing itself, and it is believed, that no company ever embraced an opportunity with more zeal or more success.

A detachment from the 2d brigade under the command of Lt. M'Donald, penetrated the woods with the Indians and volunteers, and for their support. The conduct of M'Donald and his command reflects high honor upon the brigade to which they belong.

The conduct of Gen. Porter has been conspicuously gallant. Every assistance in his power to afford, with the description of force under his command, has been rendered. We could not expect him to contend with the British column of regulars which appeared upon the plains of Chippewa. It was no cause of surprise to me, to see his command retire before this column.

Justice forbids that I should omit to name my own family. They yield to none in honorable zeal, intelligence and attention to duty. Col. Gardner, major Jones and my aids capts. Austin & Spencer, have been as active and as much devoted to the cause as any officers of the army. Their conduct merits my warmest acknowledgements; of Gardner and Jones I shall have occasion again to speak to you.

Maj. Camp, dep'y quarter master gen. deserves my particular notice and approbation. By his great exertion I was enabled to find the means of crossing. Capt. Daliba of the ordnance department has rendered every service in his power.

The enclosed return will shew you our loss and furnish you with the names of the dead and wounded officers. These gallant men must not be forgotten. Our country will remember them and do them justice.

Respectfully and truly yours,

JACOB BROWN.

Hon. JOHN ARMSTRONG,
Sec'y at War.

PORTSMOUTH, (N. H.) July 14.

Dear Sir—The eastern stage has just arrived. I have conversed with a passenger who left St. Johns a few days ago. He states that a fleet had lately arrived at Halifax with 12,000 troops, and bro't a messenger with despatches to the Governor of Canada.

The messenger states that commissioners on the part of our government and this, had met, and that the general opinion was in England that a speedy peace would be concluded. He said that he was in his opinion bearer of an armistice.

Mail stage is waiting, yours, in haste,
C. BAKER.

P. S. I have broken open my letter to say that a frigate has arrived at Halifax, with a messenger, since the arrival of the troops.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, JULY 29, 1814.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman at Buffalo to his friend in this town, dated July 18, 1814.

"Contrary to all expectation the enemy abandoned his works of defence at Chippewa and Queenstown Heights, and shut himself up in forts George and Niagara. Our army advanced to Queenstown Heights, where it now is, apparently waiting the approach of the fleet under Com. Chauncey. An engagement is daily expected. Affairs with the outposts, or picket guards, of the two armies, frequently happen without much loss or gain on either side."

ERIE, July 22.

The schooner Diligence, Capt. Perry, arrived here on Wednesday evening from Detroit. Capt. Perry states that Com. Sinclair passed up the rapids of the river St. Clair on the 13th inst. He was a week going through lake St. Clair, there being but 8 feet 4 inches water for several miles, and had to take nearly every thing out of the vessels to enable them to get along.

A short time since about 40 of our militia had a skirmish with nearly 200 of the enemy, supposed to be militia, on the Thames. The enemy fled directly, thinking they were attacked by a large force. Our party took a few prisoners and one stand of colours.

On Wednesday evening 100 of the 22d Regt. under command of Lieut. Guy, embarked on board the schr. Porcupine, and sailed for Buffalo. Yesterday morning about 220 of the 1st Regt. commanded by Lieut. Col. Nicholas, sailed on board the schrs. Ohio and Tigress for the same place.

Capt. Kennedy, the commanding officer on this lake, has received official information that the British have now a force on Long Point, and are building boats at that place or in some of the creeks or inlets between there and Detroit.

BUFFALO, July 19.

There has been several small affairs between the picquets. On Tuesday night last, a party from our army, commanded by Gen. JOHN SWIFT, (late of Palmyra, Ontario county) of the volunteers, encountered a party of the enemy, a part of whom surrendered; and while our party were advancing to receive those of the enemy who had surrendered, a fellow shot gen. S. through the body, which wound proved fatal the next morning. We understand the man escaped, but those that surrendered were brought in.

In this affair fell one of the worthies of the Revolution—the veteran soldier—the honorable patriot. Palmyra has now to lament the loss of two her best citizens. The gallant CUYLER fell on the shores of the Niagara....On the Heights of Queenston rest the remains of the valiant SWIFT.

On Friday last, several waggons in the employ of the U. S. were taken by the enemy near St. David's, 4 miles from Queenston. Seth Cotton, of this place, and his team, were among those captured.

On Saturday night last, a party of the enemy, said to be Indians, surprised our piquet at fort Erie, consisting of 8 men, 2 of which were killed and the rest taken.

A boat, containing 3 men and a quantity of goods, supposed to be persons following the army as retailers, is reported to have passed over Niagara Falls last week. The names of the persons said to be lost, we have not ascertained.

DOCTOR HANDY'S,

WORM DESTROYING

LOZENGES,

A safe and efficacious Medicine for destroying and bringing away

WORMS.

MAY be used with safety by children of any age, or as common physic by the most delicate constitution, in any climate, without restraint of diet, or the smallest danger from cold. It may be given with advantage after the small-pox or measles; or as a family medicine, in any case where physic is necessary. The most frequent seat of worms in the human body, is the intestinal tube; but occasionally they have been found in almost every other part of the body.

Some very extraordinary cases of Worms, of an unusual form and appearance, being brought away by these Lozenges, have been made public in England, where the rapid sale of the medicine has exceeded any thing of the kind ever known before; and has also proved, to a demonstration, its approved superiority, as an athelminthick, to the numerous puffed-up, useless nostrums, which are daily advertised in the newspapers.

A single dose of this valuable Medicine has often been known to remove half a pot-full of the Teres or Round Worms.

A few doses are generally sufficient to remove the Ascarides, a small white worm, the seat of which is either the stomach or rectum.

Even the Tape Worm, at all times the most difficult to destroy, may, by persevering in the frequent use of this medicine, be totally removed in the course of a few weeks.

To select cases, with the names of people who are not known here, and living at a great distance, would be useless, and take up too much of the reader's time. We shall therefore only observe, for the benefit of those who are unacquainted with the symptoms of worms, that they are known or suspected to exist by a pain in the stomach, attended with a sudden depression of spirits before eating; at other times, the belly is hard, painful and distended with wind—costiveness, head-ache, and trembling of the limbs, with a sense of something rising in the throat—pale complexion and emaciated body, with weakness and irregular appetite—convulsive, epileptic, or falling fits—pains in the back and side, and frequent itching of the nose, and sometimes of the anus. The above, and a long train of afflicting diseases may all be occasioned by worms, which are much oftener the cause of death than is commonly believed.

The above valuable Medicine is sold only by

Doctor CHISHOLM'S Anti-Bilious Pills,

OF A QUALITY

Superior to any thing of the kind ever offered as a

GENERAL MEDICINE,

IN THIS COUNTRY,

Now prepared from a recipe of the celebrated Dr. Chisholm, who, from a long residence in the West-India islands, has been enabled to favor the world with the most complete history, and most approved methods of curing all the BILIOUS DISEASES of those warm climates

This extraordinary medicine, which now for the first time is finding its way into general practice, has properties in the highest degree superior to the mercurial nostrums so frequently recommended by the name of Anti-Bilious Pills. The extraordinary powers of this medicine as a solvent and evacuant of bile, is without example; never producing debility, or injuring the health, in the smallest degree, of the most delicate child, or weakly female.

The BILIOUS HEAD-ACHE, so much complained of in this country, and in the neighbourhood of rivers, is often removed by a single dose, which, to a strong man, is only five pills, and to a weakly woman, three. The same dose will generally remove the most excrutiating pains of the cholic, like a charm, by abusing the bile to pass downwards in the course of an hour or two.

Two or three Pills taken an hour before dinner, and repeated every third day, will effectually remove those diseases arising from flatulency and indigestion. and by persevering in the use of them for a considerable time, the appetite will be improved, and strength and vigor will return.

Two Pills taken at bed time, with a cup of penny-royal tea, and repeated every second night, will effectually remove Rheumatic pains, wherever seated.

A single Pill, taken every fourth hour with a cup of flax-seed tea, will cure Pleurisy, promote expectoration, and relieve coughs and colds.

In CONSUMPTIVE CASES and diseases of the liver, no medicine ever yet discovered, has been known to perform such cures. Two Pills, taken every third morning, will be found sufficient, unless costiveness prevails; in which case, the dose may be increased according to the strength or constitution.

The Dysentery, Croup, and Summer Complaint on children, are soon relieved by a few doses. A single Pill to a child of 6 years old, and the dose increased according to their strength and age.

In Asthmatic or Phthisical cases, where the laborious breathing and great oppression, with faintings, are fast sinking the patient to the brink of the grave, a few Pills, taking one every hour, with fennel or pepper-mint tea, will often enable the patient to walk about in a few hours.

The above valuable Medicine is Sold ONLY in Pittsburgh, by

J. P. & J. W. Skelton,

At their Wholesale and Retail Apothecary and Drug Store.
